I. About cookies

1. A cookie is a file containing an identifier (a string of letters and numbers) that is sent by a web server to a web browser and stored by the browser. The identifier is then sent back to the server whenever the browser requests a page from the server.
2. Cookies can be either "persistent" cookies or "session" cookies: a persistent cookie will be stored in the web browser and remain valid until a specified expiration date, unless deleted by the user before the expiration date; session cookies expire at the end of the user's session when the web browser is closed.
3. Cookies typically do not contain any information that personally identifies the user, but the personal information we store may be linked to information stored in and retrieved from cookies

II. Cookies we use
